

BY THE NUMBERS

One-year retention rate for IAP scholars, higher than that of other freshman students at the University of Maryland

Six-year graduation rate of IAP scholars

Current IAP scholars who are enrolled in the Honors College, College Park Scholars, CIVICUS and other living and learning programs

4

IAP scholars who have served as commencement speakers

4

IAP students inducted into Omicron Delta Kappa, a 100-year-old national leadership honor society

3

Maryland Medallion Society and Byrd & Elkins Finalists

1

Student inducted into Phi Beta Kappa, America's most prestigious honor society

1

Student received Big Ten Medal of Honor, the conference's most exclusive award

180
graduates

An additional 12 students are on track to earn their bachelor's degrees in 2021.

16

IAP alumni who have earned or are pursuing doctoral degrees.
These alumni will be among the 2% in the United States population who hold doctorates.

88

IAP scholars who have studied abroad in Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Chile, China, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, England, Ethiopia, France, Germany, the Grenadines, Hong Kong, India, Italy, Jamaica, Japan, Korea, Lesotho, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Singapore, South Africa, Spain, Thailand, the United Arab Emirates and Vietnam.

73

IAP alumni who have either completed or are pursuing graduate studies at institutions, including Cornell University, Georgetown University, William & Mary Law School, University of Illinois, American University, Johns Hopkins University, Temple University, Strayer University, Widener University, Edgewood College, Argosy University, Morgan State University, Drexel University, University of Pennsylvania, Carnegie Mellon University, New York University, Syracuse University, Boston University, San Francisco State University and the University of Maryland.

